Brother Philip Paget who died in Sunderland in 1960

I think the story I have was told about several people but as far as I know it was originally a story told of Brother Philip.

It was when he was in the community in Birmingham, the Erdington community. And he lived down the corridor fairly near the Rector's room.

And one night after lights out, the Rector was going to the toilet when he noticed a rather big notice stuck to Brother Philip's door and the notice said please do not call, have not slept a wink all night.
